

ABSTRACT

09/484437

A low temperature cure adhesive material for affixing a solder mask to a die is described. The adhesive material is at least partially cured at temperatures below about 100°C. The low temperature curing lowers the thermal stresses on the adhesive, diminishes the possibility of voids being formed in the adhesive material, and increases the bond yield.

5

09/484437